SENIORS DEFEATED IN THE FIRST GAME OF CLASS SERIES.

Taylor, Knapp and Carter the Stars.

Campus, Feb. 8.—On the campus this afternoon, in the first game of the class series, the Seniors met defeat at the hands of the Freshmen, by the score of 26-0. The Seniors, though fighting hard and well at times, weakened at crucial moments and were unable to withstand the mighty line plunges of Taylor and Hudson, and allowed Knapp to pull off some beautiful runs around the ends. The Freshmen, though slightly weak at places in the line, put up an excellent exhibition, both on the defense and offense; and their work in every department of the game was good. The Seniors were outweighed and had very little chance of winning in the early part of the game, but they were every one game until the last and fought hard.

With the exception of one or two double passes, executed by the Seniors, the game was entirely straight football. The most effective ground gaining on both teams was made through the line.

The game was witnessed by several hundred loyal class supporters, and although there was very little rooting, the interest was keen and the spirit high.

Stars of the Game.

"Baby" Taylor, full back for the Freshmen, was without a doubt the most conspicuous player on the field, his exhibition of football was the best that has ever been seen in the class game. He plowed through the line for gains, ranging from five to fifteen yards, and scored three of the four touchdowns. His defensive work in backing up the line was equally as good, getting in almost every play from one end to the other. Capt. Knapp, of the Freshmen, played a beautiful game, often circling the ends for fifteen yards. His defensive work was excellent. Hudson, at full did some very effective work on the offense. Steed, at tackle, and Gambill, at end, showed up well and played a great defensive game.

For the Seniors the work of Carter, at end, was easily the feature; he was in every play on his side of the line and put up a defensive game that would be a credit to any varsity end. Dillard at quarter, played a very good game, making several very good end runs. Capt. Miley and Emmons showed up well in the line.

DISTINGUISHED MAN VISITS AUBURN.

Prof. T. W. Shannon of Marietta, Ohio, was the guest of the Auburn Y. M. C. A. last Tuesday and Wednesday. Prof. Shannon is one of the directors of the World's Federation for Purity, and is one of the foremost authorities in America on Sex Hygiene and on social problems. He has the endorsement of college presidents, Y. M. C. A. secretaries and social workers not only in the south but throughout the whole United States. He has been invited by Dr. W. D. Weatherford, the international secretary for the south to visit the colleges, universities and preparatory schools in the south. Auburn is the twenty-eighth college he has visited since starting on the tour. He has already been to every important school in the state. From here he goes to visit the colleges in Tennessee, North Carolina, Virginia, to Pennsylvania and New York.

While in Auburn Prof. Shannon delivered two addresses on Sex Hygiene, one Tuesday night and one on Wednesday night, and a special lecture on Eugenics on Wednesday afternoon. Fully four hundred men heard the first night lecture and at least six hundred the second. There was also a good audience for the afternoon lecture.

Prof. Shannon spoke "as one having authority" on this important question. His lectures were interesting, highly instructive and convincing. He gave the facts plainly and scientifically and in a refined manner. His visit to Auburn will long be remembered and Auburn men are deeply indebted to Prof. Shannon for the service he has rendered. We wish him Godspeed in his work among College and University men throughout the United States.

CONFERENCE OF ALUMNI VICE-PRESIDENTS IN MONTGOMERY.

Last night at the Exchange Hotel in Montgomery the Alabama Vice-Presidents and some of the non-resident Vice-Presidents of the Auburn Alumni Association met with the officers of the Association and local Alumni to discuss plans for the Great Home Coming Commencement.

This movement has been on foot almost a year now and it is sure to be the biggest thing that has ever happened for Auburn. It is the purpose of last night's meeting to get the Vice-Presidents together and get them busy formulating plans for the Home Coming. We are assured that the Home Coming is to be a success as letters are constantly coming in from Alumni all over the country saying how glad said Alumni are of the opportunity of coming back to their Alma Mater for a general reunion and "Love Feast." So the Vice-Presidents are preparing to give each and every one of them a royal reception. Most of the officers and Vice-Presidents were present at last night's conference. They are as follows:

Thomas Bragg, '01, President, Auburn, Ala.

W. M. Williams, '96, Orator, Montgomery, Ala.

R. D. Webb, '97, Secretary and Treasurer, Auburn, Ala.

FRATERNITIES TO BOOST HOME COMING.

Last week two representatives from each of the fraternities represented here at Auburn, met with Professors Bragg, Shi, and Rutland to discuss plans for the Great Home Coming Commencement. The fraternities unanimously agreed to lend their support to the Home Coming, and to boost it in every way possible, and to make every effort to have as many of their brother Greeks back here for commencement as possible.

No definite plans were made, but each fraternity is to plan some individual entertainment for the benefit of its returning brethren and there is little doubt but that there will be smokers, stag dinners, informal dances, etc., galore.

Mrs. R. P. Dexter of Montgomery, is spending several weeks with her daughter, Mrs. Reed Yarbrough.

THE BAND MAKES A TRIP TO BREWTON AND MOBILE.

Having been urgently requested for several years, and incidentally to better the financial condition, the Cadet Band stopped over in Brewton en route to Mobile and gave a concert. Although there was not a crowded hall, those present were enthusiastic and appreciative. After the concert the members of the band enjoyed a dance which was given in their honor.

Sunday morning they left Brewton for Mobile, where they were to fill engagements for the Mardi Gras Carnival. A sacred concert was given Sunday night at the Cawthon Hotel. Monday morning the band went aboard the U. S. Revenue Cutter, Winona, to escort the King, Felix, of Mardi Gras to the city. The time aboard was most enjoyably spent.

Monday night the Band was very highly honored by being asked to play at the coronation of the King. Tuesday morning they played in the Knights of Rebu parade, and that evening gave two concerts at Bienville Park.

While in the Gulf City the A. P. I. Band was rated with the very best musicians in the south, and were quite the favorites among the music loving faction. The trip was greatly enjoyed by all, being guests at several social functions.

The Band wishes to thank Messrs. Cargill and Driver of Montgomery and Mr. Brooks of Opelika, for their able assistance.

While in Mobile the A. P. I. headquarters were at "The Battle House."

THE CORN EXPOSITION.

Dr. W. E. Hinds returned Monday from Columbia, S. C., where he had been in attendance at the Corn Exposition for several days. On Tuesday morning, Dr. Hinds made a brief talk in Chapel regarding the importance and significance of the Exposition. Among other things he stated that it had been one of the most inspiring and impressive gatherings he had ever attended; the greatest agricultural show the United States has ever had. Besides the great corn exhibits, there were also exhibits of other agricultural products, requiring several days' time to be looked over. Doubtless the name of the Exposition will be changed to include the other farm products.

There were present at the Exposition 101 boys of the Alabama Corn Clubs and eight girls from the Tomato Clubs of the state. This delegation of young agriculturists, though made up of boys only twelve to twenty years old, had the record of growing an average of 164 bushels of corn each per acre at the small cost of 16 cents per bushel, and carried off the honors of the Exposition. One of their number, Jimmie Hill, of Gadsden, has the distinction of having produced 212 bushels of corn per acre at the very low cost of 8 6-10ths cents per bushel. This is a world's record. Among other honors, the Alabama delegation was presented with a bust of Dr. Knapp.

It Would Be Appreciated.—"What reform are you interested in now?"

AUBURN, ALA, FEBRUARY 15, 1913

The grades for the second mid-term examinations have just been completed and in consequence a large number of students are looking pretty glum. From what we can gather the number of Fours made on these examinations is greater than usual. To many of the students there seems but one explanation for this, and that is one which lets the student off as light as possible, viz: "that the examinations were unusually hard." This is the time-worn method of shifting the burden of poor grades upon the faculty, in order to square things with the folks at home.

But if we get real honest with ourselves we shall find that there is another and more consistent reason for the prevalence of poor grades on these second mid-terms. This is that the students haven't been working as they should. We imagine that one of the chief reasons for this is that it is very hard for the average man to get down to work just after any holiday; and especially is this true in the case of such a big holiday as we had Christmas. We acquired the habit of idleness during the holidays and came back here with plenty of good yarns to spin, and very little responsibility in regard to our real purpose in coming to Auburn. Consequently we wasted a couple of weeks in getting a bad start, and many of us have now fouled out on our mid-term Exams.

But fellows we have got the big end of the term left, and there is still time to buckle down and pull that column of squads up to a good pass in everything. It is true that the rest of this term will be interrupted by the 22nd of February, but the festivities will occupy just exactly one day and two nights. So that is a mighty small matter in contrast with the time which we will have to put on our work. So let us get serious about this thing and get busy.

THE VIEWPOINT.

How a Man's Clothes Look to a Woman.

Everything that a man wears is silly and without reason. Beginning at his head, we find a hideous device of silk or felt, that is so hard and tight that it leaves a red rim about his forehead when removed. If it should vary an eighth of an inch in any particular from the one in the haberdasher's window marked "New Modle 1913," it is out of style and must be instantly replaced, by one built along the proper lines, no matter how unbecoming it may be.

Just below the hat we encounter a four or eight ply band of cotton or linen, about which is a string of silk, highly colored, and so tightly drawn that any use of the throat or windpipe is fraught with danger. This is a collar and tie.

Attached to the front of the collar is a stiff or semi-stiff layer of material, whose function it is to lie smooth and unperturbed, but which insists, upon the contrary, in cracking, breaking, rumpling, or rolling up in a puff just under the chin. This is called by courtesy a shirt bosom, but is really a perpetual cataclysm.

Worn over this is a hollow sham called a vest or waistcoat. Its front is of rich material, but the back shrinks out of sight in a much inferior stuff and becomes a white, grayed or blacked sepulcher, as the case may be. Outside of this is worn a garment with two tails (which is one more than is allowed any other animal). Above the upper terminal of these tails are two ridiculous buttons, for the purpose of fastening the wearer of the garment to any article of furniture upon which he may be sitting. This is a coat.

Depending below the coat and waistcoat are two cloth stove-pipes for incasing the lower extremities of the he biped. They swing from the shoulders by decorated rubber straps that causes their owner to resemble, in appearance and feeling, a harnessed jackass. These are trousers and suspenders.

The bottoms of the trousers fail to reach the shoes by about three inches, and this intersection is covered with a section of colored silk half-hose that does not correspond in the least in color or with anything else in the neighboring landscape.

The shoes are constructed upon architectural plans that resemble flat irons that had decided to turn up their noses just before the metal cooled. Each shoe has a broad leather veranda extending about its front half, and is no more the shape of the human foot than the hat and other clothes are the shape of the head and body. (A '16 Guy).

Most interesting papers on China, present and past conditions were delivered before the members of the Conversation Club on Thursday night by Dr. J. F. Messick and Prof. O. D. Wannamaker. The club met at the home of Dr. B. B. Ross. As Dr. Wannamaker spent several years in China his paper was unusually interesting.

J. M. Hopkins, a prominent cotton buyer of Mobile, is spending two weeks at the A. P. I. instructing the members of the Senior class in the method of grading and classing of raw material. It is the intention of the department of Agriculture of the Institution to acquaint the students with the knowledge that will assist them in disposing of their product and of knowing its true worth and to this end Mr. Hopkins is instructing the students. He is giving individual instructions to all of the members of the Senior class whenever it is possible for them to find time to see him.

A young ruralian just back home from his first term at College had been out driving one afternoon; as he drove up to the stable he said the following to the stable boy: "Come my boy, and extricate this fatigued and sweltering animal from the vehicle; stabulate him forthwith; donate to him an adequate sufficiency of nutritious aliment, and when the resplendent brilliancy of the morning aurora shall illuminate the western horizon I shall award to you a pecuniary compensation for your admirable and satisfactory hospitality and obedience."

ALWAYS BUSY.

As autumn days approach we'll note

A new role for an old time star. The man who used to rock the boat

Will joy-ride in a motor car. Washington Star.

The man who used to rock the boat,

If busy now, a shade must be. He surely can't still be afloat, Unless upon some mystic sea.
